For Immediate Release:

OCEAN CITY PUBLIC SAFETY ADVISORY FOR SATURDAY February 6, 2010

Ocean City public safety officials advise citizens that Ocean City has experienced a mix of winter weather, which has created hazardous conditions on Ocean City roadways. There are reports of scattered power outages, which Delmarva Power is in the process of restoring. The Ocean City Public Works Department has been fully mobilized and is plowing and salting Ocean City streets.

The current winter storm is expected to continue throughout the day and into the evening. Ocean City officials ask citizens and motorists to stay off the roads unless absolutely necessary.

OC Police and Fire Department personnel are actively patrolling the town. If you need emergency assistance, you can call Ocean City Communications Center at 410-723-6600. If your phone service is not operating, police and fire department personnel are in four-wheel-drive vehicles and can be flagged down.

Ocean City will be expecting increased tidal flooding in the south end of town beginning at 1 p.m.; please avoid this area today.
